The Investiture of Archbishop Williams.

Boston, May 2—The consecration ceremonies and investiture of Archbishop Williams to-day was immense. The new Catholic cathedral in this city attracted an immense crowd, and though the capacity of the building is only 7000 there were fully 10,000 persons surrounding it. By 9 A. M. the edifice was crowded in every part, and thousands were unable to obtain even a glimpse of the inside of the cathedral. Among the distinguished gentlemen who occupied seats in the middle aisle near the sanctuary were Gov. Gaston and members of the executive council and both branches of the legislature, Mayor Cobb, members of the Common Council and city government, members of the faculties of Harvard, Yale and other colleges, and the French, British and other consuls at this and other ports. [illegible], pastor of St James church, read in Latin and English the rescript of the [illegible] from Rome authorizing the creation of a new See. Mons. Roncetti read the brief in Latin to the archbishop elect, who replied in the same language, accepting the great responsibility and [illegible] attention to discharge his duties to the best of his ability. The cardinal then proceeded to the altar, seating himself, read the formula of consecration, the archbishop kneeling at his feet. The customary oath was next administered to him by the cardinal, after which he placed the pallium on the archbishop's shoulders. The archbishop next assumed his mitre and intoned a portion of the Psalms prescribed for the occasion, which was taken up by the choir and sung in alternate verses. The ceremonies ended with a benediction by the archbishop. A Te Deum was sung, and the vast congregation slowly left the cathedral.

The cardinal, with the members of the embassy and a number of bishops and priests, dined with the new archbishop at his residence. At 1 o'clock to-morrow a banquet will be given in the basement of the cathedral by the resident clergy of this city to the archbishop and the papal ambassadors. At the banquet addresses will be presented to the cardinal, Monsignor Roncetti, to Archbishop Williams and to Bishop Healey. A gold cross will be presented to Archbishop Williams in the evening. The distinguished personages will be the guests of the Catholic Union of Boston. The reception will be given in the hall of Boston College. The members of the Union will be in full dress, also the clergy and invited guests to the number of 800. The Foster cadets of Boston College will be in attendance. The exercises will begin with a chorus of welcome, then will follow an address to the cardinal by H L Richards, president of the Union; a Latin hymn and chorus; response by the cardinal; singing of the Star Spangled Banner and chorus; address to Mons. Roncetti in French by W S Pelletier, secretary of the Union; Hallelujah Chorus (Handel); response by Mons. Roncetti. The exercises will close by singing a Te Deum. From the list of officers and seamen furnished it is evident they were all British subjects, which opinion is not only confirmed by the navy department, but the suspicion is that the Birney is an English vessel sailing under American colors engaged in stealing natives off the group of islands visited, and that the natives only defended themselves against the intruders. The services of the American navy in punishing these savages are required.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

Some Interesting Revelations Promised.

San Francisco May 1—In consequence of the failure of the grand jury to indict Rosener, ex City Assessor, the evidence given in his case before the finance committee of the Board of Supervisors will now be made public. It has been withheld thus far in hope the grand jury would find a true bill against Rosener, and it was not desired to create prejudice or forestall the action of the grand jury by the publication of this evidence, which is very voluminous. It is said to make disclosures affecting hundreds of the most prominent citizens, and will reveal most unblushing frauds perpetrated by Rosener on the one hand and large tax payers on the other. The transactions are of the most open character and scarcely an attempt was made at concealment. In the cases of extensive banking firms, railroad and steamship companies, real estate owners and others, the testimony is said to be direct and conclusive in showing that the valuation placed on their property was made a direct and specific matter of bargain and sale, the amounts demanded and received by Rosener for making required reductions in the assessment being stated in set terms. The gross amount of frauds thus perpetrated on the public will reach hundreds of thousands of dollars, and the legitimate result of honest and fearless action by the grand jury would have been the indictment for penitentiary offenses of scores of leading business men of this city.

Fire at Los Angeles.

Los Angeles May 2—This morning at about 1 o'clock the police sounded an alarm of fire, which proved to be on the east side of Main street, opposite the court house, in a one story building between Rapp's saloon and La Mariposa store. In a few minutes they were all in flames and their contents destroyed. The places burned are L. Johnston's boot and shoe store; S. Worms, watch maker; Main Street Market; D. W. Fitzpatrick, Acme tailor shop; Little's saloon, and a fruit store. There was considerable delay in getting on water, but the engines could not have saved the buildings enumerated. Luckily the flames were closely confined between the brick walls of the La Mariposa and Rapp's saloon, or much greater damage would have been done. It is supposed the interior of the building was burning some time before the alarm was sounded, as the buildings were wrapt in flames in an instant. The fire is supposed to be the work of an incendiary. It is impossible to get at the figures of losses to-day. There was little insurance on stocks, and the loss will fall heavy on every one.

EXTRAORDINARY ADVENTURE

HOW THREE HUNTERS ENCOUNTERED AND KILLED A GRIZZLY

[From the El Dorado Republican April 22.]

On the 10th of the present month three grizzly bears were captured near the head of Gaddis creek, in this county, by Elias Woodford, Charles Callagher and Daniel Wickhoff. It appears that these persons had been engaged during the winter in trapping mink, otter and marten in the vicinity of Gaddis creek. Early on the morning of the 10th instant the trappers, accompanied by their faithful dog Joe, left camp for the purpose of examining their traps. After going some little distance the dog acted very strangely, rushed through the thick underbrush, barked furiously, then returned and acted very much as though he had some information to communicate. Fearing that a grizzly might be lurking in the brush, which is very dense, the trappers concluded they would first reconnoitre before incurring any risk. Woodford immediately ascended a high tree in the vicinity, where he could get a better view of the situation. After bringing his spy glass (we mean his goggles) to bear upon surrounding objects he saw the dog about three or four hundred yards distant barking near a fallen tree that was lying upon a flat comparatively free from underbrush. Wickoff returned to camp to procure a rifle and ammunition, and quickly returned, when all three went to the fallen tree, where the dog still remained.

Upon examination they found the tree was hollow, with an entrance only at one end. It then occurred to them that, as they had seen some suspicious looking person in the vicinity a few days before, that the hollow tree might be the retreat of some fugitive from justice. The dog, however, could not be prevailed upon to enter the hollow tree, although the opening was sufficiently large to admit him. Woodford brought his goggles to bear at the opening, but all was dark in the interior and no object visible. Gallagher, who is the smallest of the three but endowed with much pluck, concluded that he would explore the interior of the tree at all hazards and ascertain whether it was occupied by man or beast. Taking off his coat and arming himself with a large butcher knife, he proceeded, notwithstanding the remonstrance of his companions, on his perilous trip of discovery. He crawled slowly and quietly, stopping at intervals to listen for some sound or other indication that might lead to the discovery of the object of his search, but not a sound of any kind could he hear until he had proceeded into the interior of the tree about forty feet, when he heard a slight movement and saw a pair of glaring eyes a few feet in advance of where he was. Stopping a moment to regain breath and taking a firm grasp of the knife, he exclaimed "Who's here?" and was immediately answered by a stunning blow on the head, which tore off his cap and for the moment gave him the impression that he had lost half of his head; the blood flowed freely, blinding his eyes.

He cried for help, exclaiming that he had either found the devil or a grizzly, and he couldn't tell which. Woodford commenced hammering on the tree with his ax at a point where he supposed the struggle was going on between Gallagher and his unknown foe in the dark. This diverted the attention of the grizzly (as it became evident that Bruen's quarters had been invaded), while Gallagher beat as hasty a retreat as possible. Woodford went to work vigorously to make an opening in the tree with his ax, and the moment Gallagher made his appearance Wickhoff closed the opening with chunks of wood and limbs of trees. Some might suppose that Gallagher looked pale after his wonderful escape, but his companions aver that, on the contrary, he looked very red—the blood covering his whole face and neck. Upon a hasty examination, however, it appeared that he was only slightly scratched, and was almost instantly prepared to assist in the effort to capture her bearship. It took but a very short time to obtain an opening in the tree, and the bear, as soon as sufficient space was made, protruded her nose to snuff the fresh air, when Wickhoff promptly placed the muzzle of his rifle against her head and sent a ball crashing through her brain.

The tree had to be cut in two before the carcass of the bear could be extricated from its position. It proved to be a she bear of unusual size, and it required the combined strength of the three trappers to haul it to their camp. After being skinned and cut up, the fatty portion was reduced to oil, and yielded, according to the statement of the trapper, thirty gallons of pure oil. We understand that our fellow-townsman, Doctor S. J. Alden, will go to Gaddis creek to negotiate for the purchase of the oil and the bear's gall. In our next issue we will give a full account of the capture of the other two bears, which after a terrible struggle were taken alive.

THE WHITE ELEPHANT

Under the above caption the San Francisco Stock Report of late date thus discourses upon a subject that is especially interesting just at this time:

The great desire of California is at length being realized. After years of incessant puffing about our Italian skies and wonderful soil, the result has come. An influx of immigrants is setting in which is only comparable to that of the flush days of '49, or the inroads of the grasshoppers into Nebraska. And now the problem is what to do with the thousands of dependent laborers and their families who have been enticed hither by the miscalculated statements of a large portion of the press, and who arrive without money, without connections, without immediate prospects of work, and in every way disgusted by the contrast the country presents to the Eden of their imagination. There is room, it is true, for a population of millions instead of a few hundreds of thousands in this broad State, but it should be filled up gradually and on a different basis. Persons who come here without means to engage in business or manufacturing, who are not able to take up land for the purpose of farming, and perhaps not even provided sufficiently to await the chance of employment, will have a sorry time indeed. The "land without beggars" will at the present rate of immigration soon become noted for the number of its people who are unable to obtain work.

Until the obstructions on the line of the railroad put a temporary stop to the ingress of travelers, the additions to our population were at the rate of several hundred a day. One western bound train of twenty four car loads of immigrants recently passed Reno, and not unfrequently as many as one thousand persons have arrived in a single day. It is not known exactly how many have been added to the population of the State thus far this year, but the total must be very large. And when it is considered that these new arrivals are confined mainly to one class, that of unskilled laborers, it becomes evident that there is ground for serious apprehension as to the future. If, as is stated, the flow has only begun, the fear will soon become a terrible reality for many. A popular impression prevails in the eastern and interior parts of this country that it is simply necessary to get in some way or other to California, and then a fortune, or at least a comfortable livelihood, will be assured. White labor has always commanded high wages here, but only nominally so, for the lower grades of work have largely passed into the hands of the Chinese, who are able to live upon little or next to nothing, and accumulate money upon an income of seventy five cents a day. The unskilled laborers who have lately arrived are to be seen in numbers upon our streets, and Sacramento is so overcrowded by them that it is said it is impossible to provide lodgings to all. Many have branched off to the mining districts, and from every quarter comes the same story of men without work and unfitted to that which is offered. Even skilled miners find that there is no more room, and the common laborers who expect to share in the bonanza by simply applying for positions at the Comstock mines must be hugely disgusted. At Virginia City there are reported to be six or seven thousand men out of employment.

There are also many small farmers who have been driven from the unfortunate regions of grasshoppers, drouth and frost, and lured to California by exaggerated accounts of the capabilities of its soil. These have sold their little farms and outfits to obtain money, which in many cases will only enable them to move here. On their arrival they find that farms worth having must be paid for, and that if one wishes to take up government or State lands it is necessary to devote much labor and wait long before obtaining a return. They find also that even in California a shortness of crops sometimes occurres, and that this year only half the expected yield will be harvested. The consequence is that considerable discontent prevailes among the new comers, which may change to great distress before a great while. In this city there are now large numbers of men who cannot obtain work, many of them mechanics and artisans. These, however, will always fare better than the common laborers, who will be forced to compete with the Chinese. In time the rates for labor will be reduced even lower than they are at present, and when this is known the rush will be abated. Quite a number of disappointed ones are already sorrowfully moving back as best they can.

FARMING ITEMS

Grain of all kinds that is in the ground is growing rapidly.

Wild pigeons are plenty among the wheat fields of Salem prairie.

Farmers are getting along splendidly with their work, notwithstanding the backwardness of the spring.

Butter is scarce in the Olympia market, and almost the only sweet article to be had comes from California, and readily brings 40 cents per pound.

P F Blair, of Lane county, a man over 62 years of age, turned himself loose one day this week and sowed fifteen acres of wheat by hand. He is an old settler too.

The fifty sixth anniversary of the introduction of Odd Fellowship into America was celebrated at Astoria by Beaver lodge No. 35 by a ball at Spiritual Hall, which totally eclipsed anything of the sort ever given in Astoria before. The hall was well filled, and dancing was continued until an early hour in the morning.

Mr A L Stinson is having the Hosiery works at Jefferson put in order, and is making many improvements to facilitate the work of manufacture. The business will most likely be in operation week after next, and will be known as the Pioneer Hosiery Company instead of the Beaver Hosiery Company as heretofore.

Right Rev. Bishop Morris visited The Dalles on Sunday before last and confirmed five persons. During the services held by Dr Nevins during the preceding week, eight persons, adults and children, were baptized. We have good Masonic, Odd Fellows, C R C, R C R C, and I O G T societies, also a Grange."

CRIMES AND CASUALTIES

A young man named Lerwell, near Gervais, was run over on the 27th ult. by a span of horses attached to a harrow. He is very badly hurt.

Henry Goldoun, a seven year oldster, fell head foremost into a well at Corvallis, in which the water was 25 feet deep, but was fortunately rescued by his parent.

Chief Justice Lewis met with a painful, though not very serious accident, at Port Townsend on Monday evening of last week, spraining his ankle by stepping off a broken sidewalk.

A man named Davis, who attempted to go from Seattle to Port Madison one day last week in a small boat, was soon floundering in the sea, his boat having been upset by a gale. He was saved as by a miracle.

A man who called himself George Miller was engaged at work on Mr Settlemire's farm near Parkersville, on Pudding river, disappeared a few days ago, taking with him a pair of calf boots and a gold watch belonging to his employer.

Mr B F Neal, who was burned so badly about two weeks ago on the Santiam, is still alive, with but little hopes for his recovery. The left hand is coming off at the wrist; one eye is burned out, the other badly injured; the skull near the edge of the hair on the top forehead is burned bare and crisp.

During the moth of April there were thirteen transgressors of the law arrested in Salem. Drunkenness caused the incarceration of twelve, and one was for assault and battery. The number of licenses issued by the recorder was three: one for the sale of liquors in drug store, one for a one-horse wagon, and one for a two horse wagon.

The Record hears of a singular attempt at suicide on the Santiam, or near that stream. Two little girls slept together, the eldest only twelve years old. In the night the youngest one waked, and hearing an unusual noise roused the family, and it was found that the girl twelve years old had cut her own throat. The wound at last accounts had not proved fatal, and it was hoped would not prove so.

A letter to the Salem Record says: "On Sunday 25th ult., George Cox, a youth of 19, while out hunting near Mr Almon More's on the South Santiam, set his gun down on a log and left it while he crossed a small ravine, and returning walked along on the top of the log, and in raising the gun with the muzzle in his left hand the cock caught against the log, which caused it to fire, nipping off the end of the little finger; the ball passed through the thick part of the hand, and coming to the surface on the inside of the wrist, ranged upward along the arm, burning and scarifying the skin and making a severe flesh wound near the elbow, passed out through the sleeve."

The second orthographical contest at the Lafayette academy resulted, we presume, in a victory for the editor of the Courier, as modesty has forbidden him to give the name of the winner.

The voters of Astoria school district voted on the 24th ult. to levy a tax of two mills on the assessable property of the district ($450 000) for the purpose of improvement of the block lately purchased for the school of Messrs Hobson & Warren. This will give about $900. The block is a handsome one, purchased on three years time at $1 600.

Capitalists are expected to arrive at Seattle shortly to make investments in the Seattle and Walla Walla railway stock.

THE TERRITORIES

The shoemakers of Olympia beat the printers on Monday in a game of base ball—14 to 7.

The various industries of Seattle and surrounding country are being invigorated, receiving a new energy from the improvement of the times already manifest.

G A Barnes, Treasurer of the Western Washington Industrial Association, is now prepared to pay all outstanding, unpaid premium warrants awarded by the society at the last exhibition.

From recent arrivals from Boise the Avalanche learns that things are dull in that burg. The miners have all gone up country, and the farmers are busy in the vicinity putting in their crops.

The commissioner of Indian affairs has appointed Mr J G Swan, of Port Townsend, agent to collect Indian curiosities in Washington Territory and British Columbia for the Centennial Exhibition.

The owner of the sloop Bee, having a United States license to sell liquors, has been doing a general retail business in that line on the lower Puget Sound, especially at those points not favored with such facilities, and came to grief at Port Madison last week.

Friday morning of last week, about 6 o'clock, a fire broke out in the commissary store at Fort Canby, which destroyed that building and the sutler store adjoining it, together with a building built by the engineer department, but used as a store-house. Loss, $30 000. Messrs Allen Bros., sutlers, lose perhaps $3,000; $1,000 insurance.

The following officers were elected to serve during the ensuing term by the Thurston County Woman's Suffrage Association at a meeting held April 28, 1875: President, A H Stuart; Vice President, M A Barnes; Secretary, C E Sylvester; Treasurer, A H Giddings; Executive Committee—P C Hale, G Smith, M O Brown.

The following were the vessels in Seattle harbor April 27th: The Webfoot loading with lumber, the Jeanie to load with lumber, the Woodward loading with coal from the Seattle mines, the Olympia and Gem of the Ocean, to load with coal from the Seattle mines, the steamer Colfax loading with hay for Seabeck, and the Mastick, repairing.

The Makah Indians at Neah Bay are in the midst of the sealing season and taking a large number daily. Thirteen hundred have already been killed, and a great many more will probably be caught if the weather continues favorable. The price paid is from $8 to $12 for each skin. The post trader expects to pay out at least $35,000 for them this season.

The U. S. water gauge on the government wharf at Vancouver, as kept by Mr John Liddings, shows the water to be 9½ feet higher on the 27th of this month than it was one year ago. It is thought by some that this showing is favorable for the farmers along the river. The fact that Snake river and Clearwater are throwing off their surplus thus early, it is reasonable to suppose that they will get out of the way before the Columbia proper begins to move to the southward and thence to the coast. From these considerations the Register is willing to believe that we shall not have high water this season.

MINING ITEMS

Mr Reuben Doty, who has just returned to Dallas from the Santiam placer mines, states that he has just struck a claim where he can get from 7 to 15 cents to the pan. He came for the purpose of laying in his summer supplies, when he will return and go regularly to work.

A party of gentlemen went from Olympia last week to the newly discovered coal fields on the headwaters of the Puyallup, and on last Thursday returned, after an absence of a week, sunbrowned and tired with a rough trip. They bring back some very fine specimens of coal, some bituminous, and others that according to every test yet made of them give evidence of being anthracite.

The Vancouver Register says: "It is a matter that we can no longer disguise, that the mining interests in Clarke county are assuming such proportions that we are disposed to believe that our hills are full of rich treasures. A party of several men left this city this week for the purpose of developing what are called the Star mines, in the eastern party of this county. The best of results are looked for, as competent men are now engaged in the business."

From Mr Ad Edgar, who lately returned from a trip to Grant county, the Mountaineer learns that the mining news from that section is very encouraging. The quartz mines of Elk Creek and vicinity are prospecting well, and the Cabel mine is paying handsome dividends. The cinnabar mines that were discovered in the year '64 or '65, but abandoned on account of the hostility of the Indians, is again being prospected and opened by Messrs. Dr C H Horsley, John Ray, Gilbert Reynolds and [illegible] Beals, who have formed a company for that purpose. Mr Edgar says he saw over a hundred pounds of pure quicksilver that came from this mine. They have put up a furnace, and with a rude apparatus have commenced turning out the pure quicksilver, and in sufficient quantities already to supply the home market. These mines are situated a few miles from the John Day river, on the south side, and about 25 miles this side of Canyon City.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

The Victoria Colonist says: "Thirty five head of mules for Cassiar were brought down by the Enterprise from Yale."

Lord Dufferin has presented to the Victoria Regatta Club, through Senator Macdonald, two beautiful medals (one silver and the other bronze) to be annually competed for.

The wrecked schooner Industry and cargo of 50 tons coal dross was sold at auction to Capt. Wm. Jones for $35. Capt. Jones was owner of the craft when she was sunk by the hurricane.

After spending nearly $20 000 in an endeavor to open a cattle trail from Lillooet to Howe Sound, the local government has abandoned the project, or postponed further work indefinitely.

Mr. Hargraves, who has been for some time at Quesnelmouth awaiting instructions, has been ordered to proceed in the direction of Bute Inlet for the purpose of examining a favorable pass through the Cascades, said to exist a little farther south than that already explored.

The steamer Isabel, Capt Dan Morrison, will leave Victoria for Fort Wrangel about the 10th inst. A number of Puget Sounders will go up on her. The Stikine river was frozen up when the California left there on the 23d ult., but it is thought it will be open before the Isabel arrives at Wrangel.

Capt Brown of the sloop Thornton, from the West Coast, reports that he delivered the presents from the Dominion government to the Indians as a mark of appreciation of their acts in connection with the wreck of the bark Edwin. The chiefs were highly pleased, expressed their thanks, and promised to assist all shipwrecked mariners who might land amongst them.

JUSTICES' JUSTICE IN ENGLAND

[From the Pall Mall Gazette.]

With coals at their present price, poor people who live near a forest are exposed to a great temptation. They must, however, keep their hands from picking and stealing, or rather from sticking and stealing, for justice in this country is administered very indifferently, and its mill-wheels occasionally grind exceedingly small. A case heard a few days ago at the St. Martin's, Stamford, Petty Sessions ought to be a warning to "stickers." Four women were summoned for sticking in Cliffe Forest on the 16th of February and doing damage to the underwood to the extent of sixpence. It appears that the forest is the property of Lord Exeter, and a heavy penalty was pressed for, as considerable damage, it was stated, had been done to the underwood by stickers. The magistrates thereupon fined all the defendants £1 9s. 6d., including damages and costs, or a month's hard labor. This judgment, according to the report in the Stamford Mercury, appeared to stagger the poor women, who pleaded piteously for a mitigation of the sentence, declaring that they had been compelled to go out sticking to get firing, as they were unable to buy coal at 1s 6d a hundredweight. After a while the magistrates relented so far as to allow a fortnight for payment.

This act of mercy did not, however, satisfy the offenders, who urged that they should never be able to pay the sum demanded, and would have to go to prison, and two of the defendants, an old woman and a young girl, actually surrendered themselves into custody on this absurd plea. Another old woman, who said she had only 10s. in the world, that her husband was ill in bed, and had been so for three months, and that she only went to get a few sticks to warm him, got her penalty reduced to £1, but her money was exhausted. So evenly are the scales of justice balanced in this country, that an old woman who picks up a stick, and a ruffian who knocks an old woman down with a bludgeon, are mulcted in about the same penalty.

MONDAY MORNING, MAY 3, 1875.

THE DEATH OF HON. GEO. A. LA DOW.

Hon. Geo. A. LaDow, Congressman elect, died at his home at Pendleton, Saturday morning, of rheumatism of the heart. This unexpected event will make it necessary to hold a special election some time during the summer or fall, to fill his place, as Congress will meet on the first Monday of December.

SOMETHING ABOUT TAXATION.

Our readers will be all but horrified on reading in the Pacific coast telegrams presented this morning the disclosures alleged to have been made in the San Francisco tax-fraud case. With the history of the last four or five years of State and National politics, fresh in mind, no one will be surprised that an assessor should be taken in acts of a disreputable character or that a wealthy man who loves the possession of riches better than the paying of taxes on them should be detected in a scheme to buy up the assessor at a lower figure than his tax-rate would probably be on a fair valuation of his property. Single instances of dishonesty of the same general class have become so frequent that the discovery of one more is never a surprise. But when a whole community, or a very large number of its wealthy men are found to have availed themselves of the opportunity presented by the incumbency of a corrupt assessor, to purchase with small sums in the way of a bribe exemption from large ones in the form of taxes, the circumstance is really shocking. The state of business and political morals indicated by such general bribery is absolutely alarming to contemplate.

A question naturally suggested is, does this sort of corruption exist to any considerable extent in other cities and towns, or is it merely local? Has the moral not extended to other communities? to our community? Do not give a negative answer too hastily. Think about the matter a little, and you will be sure to think about it a good deal more. It is scarcely likely there have been any fraudulent bargains between property owners and assessors here. Our people have never got so far along as that; at all events we fondly believe they have not. But how many are there who withhold part of their taxable assets when making out their property list to the assessor? Are there any? Are there any who do not tell of all the notes and mortgages they hold? any who resort to devices and tricks to avoid paying their just proportion of the taxes? The number of such is not great, we trust, but we are persuaded they are not so rare as to be sought for as natural curiosities. Some men of considerable wealth and fair standing we are informed, have made attempts that were clearly fraudulent to escape taxation on large amounts of their property under fictitious claims of indebtedness. Such an attempt is no less objectionable in its moral aspect than a positively false return of property; nor is it any better than any other species of swindling. And yet some persons who would do this, would perhaps not be parties to a private fraud. There has grown up an idea that to rob the government is something different in point of morals from robbing a neighbor. It is a heinous offense against honesty to steal from one of your neighbors, but to steal from all of them by saddling on them the taxes you should pay, is all right enough, so long as you are not caught at it. This low standard of public honesty has to a certain extent made thefts of a public character respectable, and by that means taken away one of the strongest safeguards against official corruption.

THE OVERFLOW OF IMMIGRATION.

We reprint this morning two articles, one from the San Francisco Chronicle and the other from the Stock Report, which appear to us to be very significant. Both their articles are on the subject of immigration and in both it is clearly implied that the current of population that has been of late setting so strongly toward California must either turn back or flow on into Oregon. The Chronicle, indeed, stands not upon saying that California is full so far as present ability to take care of the new comers is concerned, and that a large proportion of the immigrants will find Oregon more to their liking than California. No doubt this is so. It would be the case even in a year of good crops in California; and it must be the more so this year, when as the Stock Report expressly admits "this year only half the expected yield will be harvested," and when it is foreseen that, to quote the language of that paper again—"the land without beggars will at the present rate soon become noted for the number of its people who are unable to obtain work." When San Francisco people make such admissions as these, it is time for Oregon to begin to calculate her chances and probabilities upon a different basis from that of the old regime, when everything was done in California that could be done to prevent immigration to this State. California, it is plain, is to be hereafter, our ally instead of our antagonist, in the matter of securing immigration. Heretofore the Golden State, looking out first for its own interests, sought to retain within its own borders all the people who came to the Pacific coast in search of homes; and now, having no present use or capacity for all that come, she pursues for exactly the same reason an exactly opposite course. Her first interest now is to have their immigrants come to Oregon, where these labor will contribute to the growth of San Francisco, and, through San Francisco, to that of California, rather than see them go back to the East; so her journals direct the attention of the immigrants to Oregon. This is an encouraging circumstance for this State. It matters not by whose representations our country is filled up, only so it is filled rapidly and with people who have not been misled into supposing they can live in this State without work. People who want to make a living by industry and economy can do that as easily in Oregon as anywhere, and a little easier, and such people the State needs. Drones will starve out here just as they starve out everywhere, just as they ought to starve out.

MAKE YOUR OWN CALCULATION.

Weigh your coat and multiply the number of pounds it weighs by the price of wool per pound. This will give you the value of the raw material. Then add a few cents—a mere trifle—for dye stuff and buttons; and subtract the sum of these from the price you paid for the coat ready made. The remainder will be what you paid to the manufacturer in some other State, or country for the labor of producing the coat. Apply the same analysis to all the articles of your clothing. You will find that for every dollar's worth of material there is, at least, nine dollar's worth of labor. Then, in order to pay for her ready made clothing, Oregon must produce and send abroad ten times as much raw material as would be required to make the clothing at home. Suppose instead of doing that we should manufacture in clothing the whole of the raw material thus sent away, and send away ready made all over what we needed for home wear, thus getting the nine dollars for labor as well as the one dollar for material, what would be the effect upon our prosperity? The building up of home manufactures is the one thing that can retrieve Oregon of dull times.

We learn there is a very large area of wheat sown this spring, and that a great part of the crop is already up and growing finely. The rain now falling will help wheat, and be especially beneficial to hay crops. On the hills and rolling lands the ground was getting pretty hard before the rain, and the shower is quite welcome in such localities.

MORE RAILROAD FACILITIES—OREGON'S GREAT NEED.

[From San Francisco Chronicle, April 26.]

While California is receiving population from the East by the hundreds daily, Oregon, an equally good country for the emigrant, gathers to herself a few hundreds yearly. The probabilities are that very many of those who settle in California this year would realy be better pleased with a country of more frequent rains and more constant verdure. Many persons come to our State, who, not finding everything just as they hoped or expected, turn their backs upon us and retrace their steps, when, if they had known where to look for it, they might have found just what they wanted. Oregon is a country quite different from our own, yet with as many varieties of climate, landscape and soil as we claim to have. Western Oregon is principally one valley, the Willamette fended off from the ocean by the Coast range of mountains, and separated from the high plains of Eastern Oregon by the Cascade range—both ranges being densely wooded with magnificent spruce, fir and pine. Its position, near the sea, and yet not swept by the sea-winds, gives it a moist and mild climate, very much like that of the Emerald Isle. So very favorable are the conditions for the growth and security of crops, that such a thing as a serious failure of the grains have never yet occurred in the history of the State. In the same way fruit is almost always ripened in plenty and perfection—the variety being very extensive and only surpassed by California.

While this is true of Western Oregon, Eastern Oregon furnishes magnificent cattle ranges, and has a climate both healthful and agreeable. As a grain country it probably never will be celebrated, yet in certain localities wheat yields a good crop. The great lack of this portion of the State is water—not really of water, for there are many rivers—but these, in order to reach the Columbia, into which in the northern portion of the State they all enter, have to cut their way down to the level of the great river, which causes them to flow through immense canyons, out of which it is impossible to conduct water for purposes of irrigation. Yet were the country thickly enough settled to warrant the undertaking, water could be brought in aqueducts from the mountains which traverse the country from northeast to southwest, as all this portion abounds in immense water supplies. Such enterprises are beyond the means of a new country, but will some time in the future bring a large body of now waste land under cultivation—land inexhaustible in fertility, though now given up to native grasses that support immense herds of cattle and horses.

As to climate, the different altitudes and various circumstances of distance from the sea and form of country give almost everything that anybody can desire, except the semi-tropical or tropical and frigid. There are no great extremes in Oregon, on either side of the Cascade Mountains. The winter just past is an exception to the rule, and for a few weeks the mercury went down below the freezing point. The cold coming upon wheat fields that had a late sowing, and no snow to cover them, killed out a considerable quantity of young grain, and compelled resowing in the spring—a very unusual occurrence.

Oregon is a splendid country for the agriculturist; but there, as in California, one discouraging fact is to be met in the outset. The emigrant arrives in Portland, and finds himself still far away from any unoccupied lands. The real estate agents have plenty of land to sell, but it is at good round prices, being all of it land in the oldest settled portion of the State. The stranger does not know where to go to look up land, nor what to do with his family while he is doing it. So, often he quits the country without ever having gone beyond Portland or Salem.

Oregon's greatest need is railroad communication with California and the East. The so-called Oregon and California Railroad does not touch the southern boundary of Oregon from either end. Holladay pushed the Oregon portion down through the wheat fields of the Wallamet valley on both sides of the river, in order to bring the freight of settled Oregon to Portland to load his steamers—and there the enterprise rests, to the disgust of the German bondholders. The people of Oregon and the would-be emigration are alike prevented from enjoying the benefits of easy and rapid communication with the outside world. The whole of Southern Oregon—a most delightful country—is hidden away behind mountain barriers, being shut in between the coast ranges from the coast mountains to the Cascades. Its people can only raise such farm products as they can afford to wagon a long distance to a seaport market, or stock which can be driven out on foot. Yet here in Southern Oregon are all the elements of a wealthy and happy State—good soil, good climate, mineral wealth in abundance, water power, grand scenery—everything that people seek in establishing homes, except the last necessity of civilization, the railway. There are between the present terminus of the California portion of the California and Oregon Railroad and the the present terminus of the Oregon portion about three hundred miles. Across this gap passengers and mail are transported in stages, with as much comfort as this means of transportation usually affords, but nevertheless at an expense of time, money and weariness of the flesh that seriously impedes the settlement of the northern portion of the Pacific coast. The opening of a through route to the Columbia river by rail would be the initiation of a large flow of travel in that direction, and would be the means of settling up and developing alike some of the most desirable portions of California and Oregon, whereby thousands might find charming, healthful and happy homes.

CITY.

A DESTRUCTIVE BLAZE.—At 15 minutes to 3 o'clock on Saturday morning Chief Engineer Hallock was aroused from his slumbers by a police officer, and informed that the brick building on First street, opposite Oro Fino Theater, was on fire. Hastily donning his clothes, Mr. Hallock ran to the scene of the conflagration. He found the interior of the second story of the brick building mentioned in flames. Not a gleam of fire could be seen issuing from the building, but huge volumes of black and suffocating smoke poured out through the seams of the closed doors and windows, and gave token of the fierce raging of the fiery element within. Several times Chief Engineer Hallock ascended the stairway to the hall, but each time the blinding and stifling smoke drove him back to the sidewalk. Meantime, a general alarm was sounded, and the discordant clangor of the fire monitors aroused the slumbering firemen and citizens from their drowsy couches. Soon the different companies were speeding with all possible haste towards the scene. Within ten minutes from the time the first bell sounded, the department was on the ground, and sending in "the first water." The fire originated in a wood room in the second story, forward of the book bindery owned by J. Fred. Miller. A spark or coal had doubtless been dropped from a pipe, and, igniting, the trash smouldered for hours before being discovered. Water was thrown on the top, side and front of the building and about the hall, for some time before the fire showed itself. When the flames at length burst from their long pent-up confines, it was but the work of a few minutes to extinguish every vestige of the destroyer. It was necessary to fairly deluge the building before the fire could be reached, and the damage which resulted from the water was unavoidable. The building in which the fire originated is owned by Mr. Jacob Seller, who is at present sojourning in Europe. The damage to the building from fire and water will probably aggregate $1,500; fully insured in the London, Liverpool and Globe Insurance Company. Mr. Sherlock, the well known saddler and harness maker, occupies the lower story of the building, and his loss from water is heavy. His stock is fully insured in the Imperial and Home Mutual. Up stairs where the fire raged the losses are quite heavy. J. Fred Miller's book-bindery was almost completely demolished by the combined ravages of fire and water. It is difficult to estimate his loss at present, but it will aggregate from $800 to $1,000. His material and stock, etc., was insured for $700. Messrs. Schwab & Anderson, who own a small job printing office adjoining the bindery, sustained about $50 loss. The next building south, owned by Hon. Benj. Stark, was slightly damaged from the fire; but the cost of repairs will not exceed $50. Great credit is due our efficient Chief Engineer and his assistants for the coolness, judgment and tact displayed in the management of the fire. As for the gallant and plucky firemen connected with the different companies, too great praise cannot be bestowed upon their conduct.

PRESENTATION.—Capt. Bolles, of the steamer Ajax, was the recipient of a handsome testimonial on Saturday afternoon, in the shape of a set of silver ladles—soup and punch. The set is of solid silver and very handsomely engraved. It was presented by the passengers who came up on the last trip of the steamer, as a token of their appreciation of the gallantry and courteous attention bestowed by Capt. Bolles, and also of his superior qualities as a seaman, evinced during the stormy passage from San Francisco to this port. The presentation took place in the cabin of the Ajax, in the presence of all the lady passengers who came up, and a large number of the gentlemen. Mr. Geo. L. DePrans, in behalf of the passengers, presented the captain with the set, accompanied by a few well chosen remarks. Capt. Bolles was taken completely by surprise at the substantial token, and he seemed not a little embarrassed. But he braced himself up to the task gallantly, and convinced the most skeptical that he could make a short speech as well as skillfully navigate a steamship. In a few, but fitting words, the captain thanked one and all for the handsome testimonial, and said the gift made him feel the proudest of men. Those to whom he was indebted for the substantial token of esteem he should ever have occasion to remember with the liveliest emotions of friendship. Lunch was then dispensed, and pledges of friendship renewed over many a bumper of sparkling wine, after which the party adjourned to the Clarendon Hotel, and an hour or more was spent in social converse. It was an occasion the participants will long remember.

UNJUST.—One morning contemporary on Saturday morning made some remarks reflecting rather severely on Dr. J. W. Murray, which we are assured by the doctor were entirely incorrect and unjust. The story of his trying to fleece an immigrant is a pure fiction. The individual with whom he had the misunderstanding, he says, urged him to take him out to Powell's valley, and the doctor, after much importunity, consented to do so. On the way a malady, for which the doctor had been healing him, became worse, and demanded more attention, which was given. Afterwards the parties disagreed about the amount of compensation, and it ended in a lawsuit, which occasioned the public notice referred to. Doctor Murray is a quiet citizen, a good neighbor, and, so far as we have seen during his eight or ten years' residence in Portland, an honorable man in business; and whether his methods of healing diseases are just like those of other physicians or not, it is unjust to stigmatize him through the public journals as a swindler because he chances to have a misunderstanding with another person, as every one is liable to have.

MISSIONARY CONCERT.—Last evening the regular monthly missionary concert was held in the auditorium of the Taylor-street M. E. Church. There was present an immense audience. As usual on such occasions, the exercises consisted of solos, duets, quartets, music by the [illegible] school, Scriptural recitations, etc. Several new features, unknown in preceding concerts, were introduced, which lent additional interest to the exercises. The music rendered, with scarcely an exception, was very creditable, and highly relished by the large and attentive audience. Several of the individual performances elicited warm applause, notwithstanding the questionable propriety of such demonstrations in a church. The exercises were usually quite brief, and included as much variety as possible. Good order was observed, and close attention paid by the audience from opening to closing, which is a sufficient guarantee that the exercises were all that could have been desired. At the conclusion a collection was taken up in aid of the missionary cause, from which quite a substantial sum was realized.

A. AND M. FAIR ASSOCIATION.—A few evenings since a meeting was held in the private office of W. S. Ladd, Esq., the object being to take initiatory steps toward the organization of an Agricultural and Mechanics' Fair Association in this county and city. Mr. R. R. Thompson was elected chairman of the meeting, and Mr. H. C. Leonard Secretary. When an organization had thus been effected the subject was generally discussed by those present, after which, on motion, a committee of three, consisting of Messrs. Amos N. King, A. P. Ankeny and Wm. Sherlock, was appointed for the purpose of making investigation, and to report as regards the site of the grounds and the probable cost thereof. The committee is to report next week at a called meeting.

PUBLIC INSTALLATION.—The officers elect of Multnomah Lodge No. 12, for the current Good Templar term, were publicly installed on Saturday evening by Richard Bird, D. G. W. C. T. The officers are T. W. Lockwood, C. T.; Nanette Sutherland, V. T.; Le F. A. Shaw, S.; Charles Williams, F. S.; Lucy Hay, T.; A. G. Walling, C.; C. O'Donald, M.; Eliza Fagett, G.; Eliza Cameron, R. H. S.; Ellen G. Bryce, L. H. S.; Emma Kellogg, A. S.; Florence Skinner, D. M. The instructive and interesting installation ceremonial peculiar to the order was witnessed by quite a large gathering of non-members, and the brothers dealt hospitably with their guests, they having provided free and bountifully laden tables in addition to throwing open their doors.

EMULATION IN EGGS.—The last item we published on large eggs seems to have created a sensation among the hens in this neighborhood, and a spirit of rivalry is the result. Mr. John Jack now comes forward with two from his barnyard, the largest measuring 6½ by 7½—and the other a trifle smaller. Whose hen comes next?

"THAT MAN."—Says the Astorian: "That man who has lived all his life time within the limits of the city of Portland, and never spent a dollar for a trip to Astoria, or any other commercial city, is greatly perplexed and asks as a conundrum, in the OREGONIAN of the 23th: 'How did a wild, large squirrel get into the heart of Portland?' Pooh! Pooh! that's no hard thing to answer. The squirrel probably burrowed under the boundary." All the response we have to make to the above paragraph is, that "that man" referred to, prefers to spend his money in paying his honest debts rather than in making pleasure trips to Astoria.

A JUDICIAL ROW.—On Saturday, during the progress of a case before one of our Justices of the Peace, the proceedings were suddenly interrupted by a general 'knock down and drag out,' in which three well-known lawyers of the city, and a medical gentleman took a lively hand. The magistrate and his constable, being peace loving and law abiding citizens, did not desire to take any stock in the proceedings, and quietly withdrew until the combatants settled their differences by force of arms. The melee soon ended with a few black eyes and bloodless noses, and peace smiled tranquilly down on the arena of justice.

UP THE COLUMBIA.—A telegram on Saturday morning, received from Wallula, stated that the river had risen two inches the preceding night. Another dispatch from Celilo, reported cloudy weather with indications of rain, the thermometer at 54 degrees. And still another, that since the last trip up of the steamer to Lewiston, Snake river had fallen two feet. The Tenino is at present laid up on the upper river, and the Yakima has taken her place on the route to Lewiston.

WEATHER REPORT.—From the records of the U. S. Signal Station of Observation, Portland, Oregon, May 2, 1875:

FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The steamer Los Angeles will leave Tacoma on Tuesday evening, immediately after the arrival of the train from Kalama. Persons wishing to take passage for the above port or go to Victoria, at which point she will touch, should leave this city on the morning boat for Kalama, connecting with the N. P. R. R. at that place.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Deady will announce the decision this morning in this court on the motion to strike out the plea of estoppel in pais in Adams v. Burke, and upon the application for a dedimus potestatem in Jones v. Or. Central Railway Co.

MINISTERS' MEETING.—The regular monthly meeting of the ministers of the city will be held this afternoon, at 2 o'clock, at the residence of Rev. J. D. Eaton.

A BOLD BURGLARY.

Some time during Saturday night a daring burglary was committed at the dry goods store of M. Franklin, on First street. On that evening the store was closed at the usual hour—about 9:30 o'clock—and the customary precautions observed to fasten the doors and window shutters. The burglars effected an entrance to the store through the rear wall. They began operations by digging through the brick wall several feet from one side of the main door at the rear of the building. A hole was dug through sufficiently large to admit of the passage of a man's body, by loosening the mortar and taking out the bricks one at a time. Through this aperture the burglars entered the building. After gaining admission, it was an easy task to open the iron doors and shutters. Mr. Franklin had inadvertently neglected to put the money which was taken in during the day into the safe, but had left it in the counter drawer. This was captured by the burglars in short order. Just how much was left in the drawer is not known, but Mr. Franklin is confident there was over $100. The burglars next "tackled" the safe, which stands in the northwest corner of the store-room, under the desk, but did not succeed in forcing an entrance. A small hole was drilled through the door just below the combination lock. About the center of the safe door a place was discovered where the burglars had commenced to bore through again, but either changing their notion or becoming frightened in their operations by some noise from without, they had abandoned the attempt to drill through. For want of time or from fright the burglars did not continue their operations on the safe. At all events they did not succeed in opening it. They gathered up a quantity of the richest and most costly goods, and placing them on a box in the center of the room, wrapped them in a blanket. In their hasty exit the burglars left the goods behind, where they were found yesterday morning. Only the money which was taken from the drawer and three rolls of poplin were missed from the store. During Saturday night a young lady who sleeps up stairs in the same building was awakened by a noise which, she says, seemed like something scratching. Supposing it to emanate from rats she paid no particular heed to the noise. It continued to increase until finding she could not sleep the lady arose and opened one of the back windows. She looked out, but was unable to perceive anything in the darkness. After retiring to bed the lady did not hear the noise again. From every appearance it is evident they hastily retreated from the store, on hearing the window open in the second story. The pile of goods, before mentioned, untouched, and a couple of short steel-pointed crowbars, which were left behind, attest the hasty departure of the thieves. Mr. Franklin's astonishment can well be imagined, when, on entering the store yesterday morning, to find the door and window wide open, the goods scattered about the room and a large hole dug through the solid brick wall. Under the circumstances, he can congratulate himself on the fact that he escaped so fortunately. Chief Lappeus was notified at once of the burglary. He came, and after carefully inspecting the premises, took the tools the thieves left behind them. A sharp lookout will be kept and the detective force set to work to ferret out the burglars.

AMUSEMENTS.

BENEFIT OF MRS. FULFORD.—Prior to the departure of herself and husband for California, Mrs. R. Fulford will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit on Wednesday evening at New Market Theater. On the occasion will be presented Wilkie Collins' last sensation, "New Magdalene." The beneficiary will appear in the role of "Mercy Merrick," supported by the full dramatic company. The following is the distribution of the cast: "Grace Roseberry," Miss Blanche Galton; "Lady Janet Roy," Miss Mary Pollock; "Julian Gray," Thos. Whiffen; "Horace Holcroft," Robert Fulford; "Ignatius Witzel," R. C. White; "Surgeon Serville," Samuel Dennis; "Capt. Armandy," J. C. Blake. As this is positively the last appearance of Mrs. Fulford, we shall confidently expect to see a crowded house. The lady is a great favorite with our public, and theater-goers will not be slow to respond to this last call of an actress who has contributed in so large a measure to their enjoyment.

ORTHOGRAPHICAL.

The spelling contest at Good Templars' Hall next Saturday evening will be open to the public, free of charge. Twenty members of Multnomah Lodge, I. O. G. T., will face twenty members drawn from the other two lodges of the order in the city—Nonpareil and Portland. The book selected for the contest is Sanders' new speller and analyzer, and a Good Templar's badge in gold will be presented to the lady or gentleman who passes successfully through the ordeal. After the lodge challenge has been settled there will be a volunteer match, free to all, in which a new feature, to be hereafter announced, will be introduced. Arrangements are being made to provide for the entertainment of the visitors in another than a merely orthographical sense.

BASE BALL.

The members of the Pioneer base ball club are requested to meet at the office of J. M. Gearin this evening, at 7:30 o'clock.

—Saturday afternoon, the Young Pacific and Excelsior clubs had a "set-to." The score stood: Young Pacific, 20; Excelsior, 6.

SOMETHING NEW.

The new style of promenade photographs. These beautiful pictures are now made at Bosco & Megler's new rooms, Nos. 127 and 129, First street. Call and examine them.

THE PRINTERS' PICNIC.

The printers of the city, at a representative meeting held Saturday afternoon, over which Mr. T. W. Lockwood presided, resolved by a hearty and unanimous vote that a picnic be given under their auspices on Saturday, May 22d. An executive committee was appointed with power to make all necessary arrangements, its first meeting being fixed for Saturday next, at 3 P. M., at the OREGONIAN office. The committee, which was drawn from the different newspaper and job offices, with a delegation to represent printers on the retired list, is thus composed:

OREGONIAN—W. H. Coburn, W. S. Cameron.
Bulletin—L. E. Coldwell, George Good.
Evening Journal—John W. Kelly.
New Northwest—Willis S. Duniway.
Catholic Sentinel—S. J. McCormick.
P. C. Advocate—H. V. James.
Sunday Welcome—J. F. Atkinson.
Temperance Star—E. Turner.
Deutsche Zeitung—C. A. Landenberger.
The Guide—T. L. Smith.
Job offices—A. G. Walling, Geo. Himes, R. H. Schwabbe, W. Cook.
Retired printers—David Steel.

There were also appointed on the committee—Theo. Smith, W. A. Daly, S. A. Moreland, and T. W. Lockwood.

A rough census that was taken, in anticipation of Saturday's meeting, revealed the fact that the numerical strength of the craft in Portland is greater than perhaps any one connected with the trade believed possible. United, as on the occasion of their first picnic they promise to be, the Portland printers will make a goodly muster; and with their ranks augmented by numerous friends who are sure to participate with them, the event in which they are interested is likely to be one of the most successful of the kind that has been known in the city. The selection of a place for the picnic has been left to the executive committee, but it is understood that no locality will be agreed upon which does not give ample scope for a variety of out-door sports.

PICNICS.

On Saturday the Sunday schools of Vancouver to the number of about 120 united in holding a picnic and excursion near St. Johns. The excursionists took the steamer Vancouver and came up to the picnic grounds, and after remaining some hours, returned home on the same boat in the afternoon. A pleasant time was experienced.

Mr. Geo. W. Weidler returned from a flying trip to Victoria on Saturday evening.

During the warm weather there is nothing better nor more cooling than a drink of soda water from Gibson & Co.'s "Arctic."

Spelling matches are all the rage now and there is no telling what may follow to occupy the attention of society. What attracts most attention in the vicinity of Front and Washington streets is the establishment of BECK & WALDMAN. The immense stock of spring and summer Clothing, and the marked changes in the matter of charges at this house is sufficient to draw large crowds to their store. Youths' clothing continues a specialty, and fond parents make a great mistake if they fail to examine the stock at Beck & Waldman's.

KOHN, opposite the National Bank, is still busy disposing of those new and exceedingly attractive styles of summer suits. His recent visit to San Francisco gave him an opportunity to make the necessary arrangements for the shipment to his house of the latest and most fashionable suits as they should appear. Everybody who has had any acquaintance with Kohn needs no urging. You need a suit, or some furnishing goods now, and Kohn offers you a splendid chance to buy.

At THE GREAT EASTERN CLOTHING STORE they are offering the finest Clothing to be found in the city, at prices that defy competition. There you can select from the latest styles which are laid in upon the arrival of every steamer from San Francisco. A full line of Furnishing Goods, Youths' Suits, Valises and Trunks constantly on hand. Observe the sign, "Great Eastern Clothing Store." W. HARRIS, Proprietor, 125 First street.

BRIEF NOTES.

Frank Gilder, the celebrated pianist, is coming; also Madame Babcock.

It is said that 500 emigrants are on board the steamer John L. Stephens, bound for Oregon.

Mr. A. S. Gross has been reappointed by Governor Grover Commissioner of Deeds for California.

The office of the Oregon Amateur has been removed from the office of A. S. Gross, Stark street, to more convenient quarters.

Walter Norton, late of Fleidner Bros., has opened the barber shop formerly occupied by C. H. Mercier, Alder street near Front.

The Rev. L. Schram will deliver his lecture before the Catholic Union, of this city, in Good Templars' Hall, next Friday evening, May 5th.

Rev. J. D. Eaton who has taken his departure for San Francisco, for a brief sojourn, was the recipient a few days since of a substantial present from his congregation. It was a purse containing $115 in gold.

The bridge at the upper end of Front street, leading to the Macadamized road, has been rebuilt, and is now ready for crossing. The ferry-boat will commence running on Monday next, from the terminus of the road to Milwaukie.

EXCITING!

The delay of the Steamer Ajax caused great excitement on First street, and at BIRD'S the rush was tremendous!

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Ladies who wish to have their own hair braided, made into switches, or worked up into any kind of ornamental work for use or preservation, will do well to call on or send to MRS. LARSON, on Ninth street, between C and D. She does all such work very neatly and upon reasonable terms. a29d1m

M. ROSENBLATT, Clothier, has just returned from San Francisco with a large Stock of Spring Goods—particularly Boys' and Youths' Clothing, at lower rates than ever. Call and see before purchasing. The store is No. 79 Front street.

What the Nervous Require.

What the nervous require more than anything else is invigoration. Sedatives alone will not cure nervousness. The reason that the nerves are so susceptible is that they are weak. Compensate for this deficiency of strength, and over-acute nervous sensibility disappears. The most rational, wholesome, and agreeable tonic is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Medical men recommend its use for the cure of general debility, knowing it to possess strength-giving properties of the highest order, and at the same time to be a means of reforming those bodily irregularities which induce nervousness and loss of vigor. It is the best known remedy for dyspepsia, whether nervous or bilious, and is powerfully conservative of a regular habit of body. As it is notorious that those who are afflicted with weak nerves, biliousness or constipation, are peculiarly liable to the influence of malaria, it is invaluable to such persons on account of its preventive efficacy. It endows the body with health, and the mind with cheerfulness.

"I'LL RISK IT."

"That cough will kill you, if you neglect it," said a New York merchant to one of his partners about nine weeks ago. "Try HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR," he added, "it has cured my wife of just such a cough as you have and I believe it would cure you." "Nonsense, my dear fellow," was the reply, "mine's not a cemetery cough. It will go away of itself. I'll risk it." He did "risk it," and is at present apparently in the last stage of Chronic Bronchitis. He is now taking the remedy, he scoffed at, and it relieves him; but, it remains to be seen whether it is not too late to effect the cure.

PIKE'S TOOTH-ACHE DROPS—Cure in one minute.

Ye Pimpled, Blotched and Ulcerated Victims of scrofulous diseases, who drag your unclean persons into the company of better men, take AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, and purge out the foul corruption from your blood. Restore your health; and you will not only enjoy life better, but make your company more tolerable to those who must keep it.

Perfect Health is the best gift of God to man. But it is left to us to keep it good. We commit a serious error whenever we deceive ourselves by not taking in hand at once any disease which may become serious. Coughs, Colds and Bronchitis are of this class. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY will cure them.

HOMES FOR SALE

STRANGER, IF YOU MEAN "BIZ," HAVE A little money and are on the walk, we're the identical chaps you have traveled "the plains across" to see. When you say "Home" you strike our strong weakness. Right here, within the sound of the church bells, we have good land for from $27 to $100 per acre. Remember this is within 3 or 4 miles of the Metropolis of Oregon, where people wear store clothes, observe the Sabbath, ride on steamboats and railroads, have spelling schools, with a soil and climate not excelled for vegetables, fruits, cereals, hops, and "ingun," with a cash market, and no fear of drought, curculio, grasshoppers or crickets; no "spanish grants" to rob you, where we have telegraphic communication with Europe, Asia, Africa and Plymouth Church; where ministers don't have to take summer vacations, for we've got a Brooklyn of our own; and where a Real Estate Agent is given a "wide berth." Yes, if this suits you, and you want to raise fruits, and vegetables, and chickens, and make butter, and WORK, we can fill the bill. True, they are in the rough; but WILL and MUSCLE, and BRAINS will make Homes of them in the fullest sense. So come right along.

CAST AWAY ON A TURTLE.

HOW A SOUTH SEA WOMAN WAS SAVED FROM DROWNING—A LIKELY REEL FROM THE LOG OF A DEEP SEA CLEAVER.

Captain John O. Holmes, who recently arrived in this city from Valparaiso, is responsible for the following striking narrative, which he vows is as "true as steel:"

The Captain had been cruising among the Society Islands, when, putting into a small cove one day for water, a number of natives, as usual, came on board to trade. Among them was a stout, comely maiden of eighteen, to whom the mate took a great fancy. She was the daughter of a chief, and reciprocating the mate's affection the twain were married, a grand feast honoring the occasion. Wi-Wi was the name of the bride, signifying in the language of her country, "Big Fish," or to interpret more particularly, "Great Swimmer," she having an extended notoriety as an expert in the art of swimming. Having married the mate she took up her quarters on the ship, much to the dislike of the Captain, who, sailor-like, felt the unseemliness of having a woman aboard. However, the vessel left the island and stood for Tahiti, where she loaded with oranges and bore thence for Valparaiso. On the voyage this incident occurred: Wi-Wi, the mate's wife, was one evening performing her ablutions near the bows. There was a moderate sea running, not, however, enough to incommode the turtles, which could be seen floating all round the ship. Some of these were of very large size and were known as the green turtle. It happened while the fair islander was so engaged that the ship toppled her bow under and picked up a sea, which passing over, carried Wi-Wi with it far to leeward. The crew were at supper, but the man at the wheel saw Wi-Wi as she went over and shouted "man overboard." At this cry, so terrible on shipboard, the crew rushed on deck; the ship was brought to, and a whale-boat lowered. By this time Wi-Wi had drifted some distance to leeward, and night falling made the task of rescuing her one of extreme difficulty. But the mate was in the boat, and though half crazed at the mishap which had befallen his dusky wife, resolved to make every effort to save her. So he urged his men with telling earnestness. They too shared his spirit and pulled away on their dangerous venture. But night fell and no sign of the unfortunate Wi-Wi was seen. The men gave her up as lost, but the mate was still hopeful. "W-Wi is a fish," said he, "and one night at sea will not hurt her. We will lay by till morning." So they lay in the boat that night shouting, but hearing no response. In the morning the mate saw a dark object on the top of a surge a long way off. "There is something over there," said he; "give way for it." "It's only a turtle," answered the men. "Never mind," replied the mate, "give way." They gave way, and after a hard pull, the sea having risen, reached the object. It was an immense turtle, and on the back thereof sat Wi-Wi. She hailed the boat's crew with a cry of joy, and plunging into the sea swam to the boat. The turtle was then secured and towed to the ship, where Wi-Wi was received with three cheers and a tiger. A glass of brandy stimulated her and made her loquacious. She told the story of her going overboard, how being bruised by striking against the rail she could not reach the ship by swimming, but floating at the mercy of the sea, was at last thrown on the back of the turtle which was complacently oscillating on the surface of the water. "But for this singular assistance," said the Captain, "Wi-Wi must have perished, and it is to be regretted," he added in a choking voice, "that the creature which had so providentially saved the life of a human being should have subsequently been utilized in the form of turtle soup."—S. F. Bulletin.

SALTING, PACKING AND SELLING BUTTER.—Blanchard's Butter Manual recommends one ounce of salt to a pound of butter as sufficient for keeping it; but the better paying class of customers, who are a little more fastidious about the quality, prefer about one-half as much; and this is found sufficient, if the casein has been properly removed. Butter makers in the vicinity of large towns should seek out regular customers for their produce, in which case it may be put up in balls or any other form adapted to the demand. "Philadelphia prints," which have acquired a world-wide reputation, are pound balls, with a small figure upon the top. They are usually inclosed in a white linen napkin, and packed in a cedar, zinc-lined chest, with apartments at each end for ice, to keep it hard while being transported to market. For the great mass of butter makers, the wooden tub, holding from 15 to 100 pounds, must ever be the most economical form of package. In the vicinity of New York city, heavy return pails, of the best white oak, with thick covers, having the owner's name branded on them, are used and reused year after year. Much depends upon the purity of the salt—it must be perfectly white, and completely soluble in water. The office of salt is, first, to remove the buttermilk from the pores of the butter, and, secondly, to render harmless what cannot be removed.

SMOKE CLOUDS IN VINEYARDS.—It is a common practice to protect the vineyards of France and Germany against frost by the production of artificial clouds of smoke. A new method in this operation has been recommended by M. G. Vinard. This consists in mixing gas tar with sawdust and old straw, and piling the material in large heaps in the vineyards. Despite of rain and moisture, the mixture preserves its inflammability for more than a fortnight. When required for use, the heaps are divided into smaller ones and distributed in and about the vineyard. If the wind be high, which it is in cases of frost, the heaps burn very freely for about three and a-half hours, producing a very dense smoke. The artificial cloud which thus envelopes the vines considerably decreases the radiation from the ground, and thereby counteracts frosts, which is greatest towards morning during calm spring nights, and does so much injury to the tender plants.

ALL ABOUT A CAT.—The Paterson Guardian says the other day a lady and gentleman from Staten Island came to this city to visit a friend, proposing to stay several days. They arrived safely, were met at the depot by their friend and were just about to step into his carriage when the lady suddenly recollected that they had left the cat in the house. Visions of what mischief the animal might do the cold meat that adorned the larder rose up instantly and appallingly before the lady. She nearly fainted, and positively refused to be comforted until George offered to go all the way back and let the animal out. Then she smiled, and told him to hurry off and be back soon. He went, boiling with suppressed wrath, killed the feline and came back. Everything is lovely now, but just wait until that couple return home!

A company has been formed in England with a capital stock of £5,000,000, to import live cattle from Texas to that country. They have a fleet of vessels of their own, and the first one, to carry 1,500 head, is to make the trip this month. The trip to this country is to be made up with emigrants at low rates.

Latest Liverpool wheat quotations by telegraph are 8s 11d per cental ex warehouse; average California, a decline of 4d.

In local finance and trade circles but little has transpired to-day changing the usual phase of affairs.

The present gentle showers coming at this opportune time cannot but prove of great benefit to the growing crops, and the farmers of the State are becoming better assured of an abundant harvest which after all, at least until our manufacturing interests are more fully developed, must form the chief basis of our State's prosperity in a financial point of view.

The produce market is stiffening up a little in most leading articles, such as wheat flour and oats, but no further important advances have occurred since our last report. While it is probable that but few more cargoes of breadstuffs will be shipped to foreign ports direct from Oregon this harvest year, it is likely that much of the surplus wheat will find its way to the San Francisco market in the raw state or as flour, as there is there a very brisk demand both for shipping and for milling purposes.

Deliveries of wheat in the United Kingdom during week before last embraced 192,000 centals from California and 96,000 centals from Oregon and as a consequence prices became somewhat depressed.

Miscellaneous.

The Register says: The wheat crop in Clarke county, W. T., looks well, and the oats are coming on beautifully. The farmers and dairymen are looking very cheerful as if the future was about to smile on them. In this country where the crops have never failed there cannot be that amount of solicitude which is common to those regions where they have a good crop only occasionally as in some of our neighboring States.

A gentleman from Puyallup valley, W. T., reports to us that the hop vines are doing splendidly, and that farming matters generally are in an excellent condition.

Mr. J. L. Myers, of Oakville, Chehalis county, W. T., reports the crops looking well in his section.

The lumber market is particularly active in San Francisco and Southern California, and correspondingly active on the Sound. Two or three new logging camps have been started near Olympia within a few days past. When the lumber trade is active its pulsation is felt all over the Sound.

The Yamhill Courier says: "During the past two weeks we have noticed the grain in several localities, and as far as we can see, it looks well. Farmers, or at least the most of them, will get through seeding the present week."

The Dallas paper says: "The wool crop of Polk will be heavier than usual, and indications are that it will command a good round price. This is a growing and exceedingly profitable industry, and our farmers are taking the right course in the matter, to wit: Improving the stock of their sheep, wisely considering that it costs no more to raise a sheep that will weigh 150 and shear seven and eight pounds of wool than it does to raise one that will weigh only 75 and shear 2 and 3 pounds of wool."

The Oregon Salmon Packing Company, on the Columbia, have finally opened the season's work, employing in their canning 20 white men and 80 Chinamen, together with 22 fishermen, who operate their 11 boats and nets. L. Gill & Co. had 40 barrels of salmon struck and ready to pack; they are running but one boat and but this season. R. Watson & Co., at Manhattan, will not put a net in the water this season, but expect to gather heads from the canneries to extract the oil, in which work four of their eight boats will be employed.

The Eugene Guard says: "There is still a considerable quantity of wheat unsold in Lane county, and an opportunity is now offered to sell at a tolerable fair price. The steamer Ohio will reach this place about the last of next month, and shippers are offering 75 cents per bushel for wheat delivered at Eugene or at any accessible point on the river between here and Harrisburg. We do not believe there is the least possibility of its reaching a higher figure than this before the next harvest, even if it does then. This county needs money worse now than ever before in its history, and we believe that by selling at this time holders of wheat will not only advance their own interests but help to relieve the pressure of others. A thousand dollars brought into the county may pay ten thousand dollars of debts, and relieve twenty or thirty from very embarassing straits."

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For all the purposes of a Family Physic,

CURING

Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach and Breath, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood, are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action; and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most skillful physicians, most eminent clergymen, and our best citizens, send certificates of cures performed and of great benefit they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

FOR THE SPEEDY RELIEF OF

Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons,

Has been widely used during the last twenty-five years in the treatment of these distressing diseases, and with such unvarying success that it has gained the reputation of being infallible. The shakes, or chills, once broken by it, do not return, until the disease is contracted again. This has made it an accepted remedy, and trusted specific, for the Fever and Ague of the West, and the Chills and Fever of the South.

Ayers' Ague Cure eradicates the noxious poison from the system, and leaves the patient as well as before the attack. It thoroughly expels the disease, so that no Liver Complaints, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dysentery or Debility follow the cure. Indeed, where Disorders of the Liver and Bowels have occurred from Miasmatic Poison, it removes the cause of them and they disappear. Not only is it an effectual cure but if taken occasionally by patients exposed to malaria it will expel the poison and protect them from attack. Travelers and temporary residents in Fever and Ague localities are thus enabled to defy the disease. The General Debility which is so apt to ensue from continued exposure to Malaria and Miasm, has no speedier remedy.

For Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy.

CITY ADVERTISEMENTS.

Ordinance No. 1625.

AN ORDINANCE TO PROVIDE FOR THE TIME and manner of improving Front Street from the center line of Washington street to the north side line of Ash street.

The City of Portland does ordain as follows:

Section 1. The proposed improvement of that part of Front street lying between the center line of Washington street and the north side line of Ash street shall be commenced as soon after the 5th day of July, 1875, as practicable, and completed as hereinafter provided by this Ordinance on or before the 15th day of October, 1875.

Section 2. The surface of the street shall be cleared of all planks, timber or other obstacles or obstructions, excepting sidewalks of the proper width and grade that are in good condition. If the planks, timber or other obstacles are not removed by the owners of the adjacent property within three days after receiving notice from the Superintendent of Streets the same shall be removed by and become the property of the contractor.

Section 3. After all the material of the old pavement (excepting the sand) has been removed the street between curbs shall be dressed up by spreading over the road bed a layer of coarse sand, to within seven and one half (7½) inches of grade at the center and its cross-section shall correspond with the cross-section of the pavement when laid. The grade of the gutters shall be eight inches below the grade of the sidewalk, except where otherwise provided.

Section 4. A flooring of one and one half inch boards of sound yellow fir shall then be laid in courses lengthwise of the street and conforming to the grade and crown thereof as directed by the City Surveyor, their ends resting upon stringers of one and one half inch boards running across the street, not more than twelve feet apart.

Section 5. Blocks of sound yellow fir six inches in depth, three inches in thickness and in length not less than six nor more than ten inches shall be set up edgewise upon the flooring in rows running across the street to the gutters. The rows shall be separated by strips of inch boards three inches wide and not more than three feet in length placed on their edges. The rows of blocks shall break joints with each other. The blocks shall be fitted so as to make close joints, and shall be uniformly laid, not varying more than a quarter of an inch in the same row. All rot, sap and defects in the lumber shall be trimmed off, and the rows both of blocks and strips shall be laid close together.

Every third row of strips shall be nailed to the blocks and flooring by a ten (10) penny nail driven slanting downwards at each end of strip.

Section 6. The space between the rows of blocks and above the strips shall be filled with clean gravel compactly rammed by means of a paver's rammer and an iron blade prepared to fit the joints.

The gravel shall be composed of pebbles of such size as will pass through a sieve with wires three fourths of an inch apart and shall be free from objectionable particles.

Section 7. Planks six inches in thickness and twelve inches in width shall be laid alongside and closely fitting to the curb, and flush with the top of the pavement blocks, except as provided in Section 8.

Section 8. Where practicable a curb six inches thick and sixteen inches wide shall be placed on edge along the outer line of the gutter plank, commencing twelve feet north or south from the line of block, at which point the top shall be flush with the top of gutter plank and sloping up to within two inches of the hight of sidewalk at the line of block and shall maintain this hight around that portion of the intersection shown on the Plan in the Auditor's office.

Section 9. The intersections of streets shall be improved with Nicholson pavement as hereinbefore described except that the blocks and the flooring shall be so laid as to miter upon the said intersections. The grade at the east side shall be such as to conform to permanent improvements. The top of blocks shall be flush with either the gutter plank or outer curb, as the case may be. At the west side line of Front street at the intersections of Washington, Stark, Oak, Pine and Ash streets; and at the East side line of Front street, at the intersections of Washington, Oak and Pine streets, there shall be placed a curb of yellow fir timber, six inches thick, eighteen inches wide at the center of street and mitered down at the sides to correspond with the grade of the street.

Section 10. Sidewalk curbs shall be of wood, six inches thick, eighteen inches wide, and in lengths of not less than sixteen feet. Their ends shall be cut square to make good joints, and each joint shall be battened with a piece of plank three feet long, three inches thick and twelve inches wide securely spiked to the inner side of the curb with six-inch spikes. Round corners shall be constructed at the corners of the sidewalks and the sills and covering plank for the sidewalks shall be put down and supported in accordance with the provisions of section 7, of Ordinance No. 793, entitled, "An ordinance in relation to the improvement of streets," except as hereinafter provided; provided that nothing in this section shall be so construed as to prevent the owner of any property from setting or maintaining a suitable stone curb, to be approved by the Committee on Streets and Public Property.

Section 11. Where practicable aprons shall be constructed as shown on the plan before spoken of. In other cases they shall be made in the usual manner.

Section 12. Where necessary, catch basins shall be constructed with suitable sand boxes and flumes, according to plan.

Section 13. All lumber used in the construction of the pavement and sidewalks shall be of the best quality of sound yellow fir, free from sap, shakes, or loose knots, and shall be sawed of uniform thickness, with good, square edges.

Section 14. All materials furnished by the contractor that are not in accordance with the provisions of this ordinance shall be at once rejected by the Superintendent of Streets, and shall be immediately removed by the contractor. In case any work is put down and it is afterwards discovered that improper materials have been used, or that the work has not been properly done, the same shall be taken up and replaced with good material, laid down in a workmanlike manner, at the contractor's expense.

Section 15. The contractor shall take entire charge of the work during its progress, and shall be responsible for any loss or accident occasioned by carelessness or neglect.

Section 16. The contractor or contractors shall give security in such sums as the Committee on Streets and Public Property shall determine, for the faithful performance of the work and also to hold the city and the property owners interested, free and harmless from any and all claims for royalty or the use of any patent, right now in force for the laying of the Nicholson pavement or any part thereof.

Section 17. The Committee on Streets and Public Property are hereby authorized, on behalf of the Common Council, to advertise for, receive proposals and enter into contract with the lowest responsible bidder or bidders for the improvements contained in the foregoing sections of this ordinance. Said contract shall contain a provision to the effect that after the commencement of the work upon the street, the same shall be carried forward continuously with as much rapidity as possible, not exceeding fifteen days for each block, without the written consent of said committee.

Section 18. The improvements shall be completed as herein provided to the satisfaction of the Committee on Streets and Public Property and the Superintendent of Streets.

Ordinance No. 1622.

AN ORDINANCE TO PROVIDE FOR LIGHTing the Street Oil Lamps and keeping the same in order.

The City of Portland does ordain as follows:

Section 1. The Committee on Streets and Public Property are hereby authorized and directed to advertise for, receive proposals and enter into contract with the lowest responsible bidder, for furnishing oil, wicks, burners and chimneys, and keeping in order the Street Oil Lamps for the term of one year, subject to the following conditions:

The number of lamps required to be lighted under such contract shall not at any time be reduced to a less number than one hundred, but the Council may at any time reduce the number of lamps to be lighted under said contract to that number.

All the oil lamps now erected or to be erected during the year, and required to be lighted under such contract shall be put in good order with proper burners, and other necessary fixtures, before being placed in the hands of the contractor.
